The Lesson of the Grass.

BY MARIE S. LADD.

"O green, and fresh, and ever cheerful grass,
That lines the path I pass—
Less cheerful I, alas—
Why should you look so bright?"
One to me said, who, looking through a glass,
Saw not the world aright.

"The place the God of nature gave, I fill
According to His will,
Besides this babbling rill
Where you so often sigh,
In valley low, or on the roundle hill,"
I slowly made reply.

"I creep along the winding river's bank—
The steep and dangerous bank—
Where never flocks have drank;
Yet I, in safety, go,—
Down the rough cliff, and on the margin bank,
All silently I grow:

"And on the highest peak, where man ne'er trod
From out the icy sod,
Where dwarf shrubs o'er me nod,
I shoot my hardy spears,—
On trackless wastes, forever known to God,
At times my leaf appears;

"Yet when his stern and biting frosts are sent
I wither in content—
My glory being spent—
For summer sun and dew,
Warm winds and floods all in their season sent,
That glory will renew;

And yet, behold, a higher life than mine.
O weary one, is thine!
Why should you so repine
At fortune's brooding face—
Formed in the image of the One Divine,
And favored by his grace!"

I know not how my silent speech he knew,
But to the distant blue
His eyes from me he drew,
Sustained his earnest look—
"I will undaunted still the right pursue,"
Then lift the rippling brook.

Selected Story.

Popping the Question.

Swift, who had no more tenderness than one of his own Yahoos, indited the most brutal proposals we know of. Tired of his shilly-shallying, Miss Waring seemed to have insisted upon his speaking out, and Swift spoke out with a vengeance. After professing he is just to stand in the way of her accepting a more advantageous offer, he says he must ask her a few questions, questions he had long since resolved to ask of the woman with whom he meant to spend his life: "Are you in a condition to manage domestic affairs with an income of less than three thousand pounds a year? Have you such an inclination to my person and honor as to comply with my desire and way of living, and endeavor to make us both as happy as you can? Will you be ready to engage in those methods I shall direct for the improvement of your mind, so as to make us entertaining company for each other, without being miserable when we are neither visiting or visited? Can you bend your love, esteem, and indifference to others as I do mine? Have you so much good nature as to endeavor by soft words to smooth any rugged humor occasioned by the cross accidents of life? Shall the place wherein your husband is thrown be more welcome than courts and cities without him." Surely never was a lady so catechised by a suitor for her hand. When Jane Warning felt able to answer every question in the affirmative, then, and not until then, her lover says, "I shall be blessed to have you in my arms, without regarding whether your person be beautiful, or your fortune large. Cleanliness in the first, and competency in the second, is all I look for!" This unique epistle ends—"I singled you out at first from the rest of women, and I expect not to be used like a common lover." Swift was evidently enough a very uncommon one.—There is a world of difference between the love-making of morbid self-loving Swift, and that cheery hearted Richard Steele; the raven's croak and the lark's song are not more unlike. The Christian hero made love like a lover and a gentleman. He never dreamed of plying his mistress with doubting question upon question. Believing his Prue to be as beautiful, witty, prudent, and good humored as a woman could be, Steele was contented to know she loved him, and took the rest upon trust. "Instead of saying I shall die for you, I profess I should be glad to lead my life with you." That is the way he popped the question; then, when assured that the dearest being on earth is his own, he asks her to name the day. —Can anything be more charming in its way than this? "I have not a minutes quiet out of your sight; and when I am with you, you use me with so much distance, heightened with a view of the charms which I am denied to approach. In word, you must give me either a fan, a mask, or a glove you have worn, or I cannot live; otherwise you must expect I will kiss your hand, or, when I next sit by you, steal your handkerchief. You yourself are too great a bounty to be received at once; therefore I must be prepared by degrees, lest the mighty gift distract me with joy. Dear Mrs. Scurlock, I am tired with calling you by that name; therefore say the day in which you will take that off, madam, your most obedient, most devoted, humble servant." A Frenchman, smitten with the charms of Fair Lydia Sterne, instead of trying to secure her good will, wrote to her father, desiring to be informed what he was prepared to give her upon her marriage, and how much he intended to bequeath her. But Sterne was not so eager to get rid of his girl as was Signor Paptista, and replied—"Sir, I shall give my daughter ten thousand pounds on the day of her marriage. My calculation is as follows:—She is not eighteen, you are sixty two—there goes five thousand pounds. Then sir, you, at least, think her not ugly, she has many accomplishments, speaks Italian and French, plays upon the guitar; and as I fear you play upon no instrument whatever, I think you will be happy to take her on my terms, for here finishes the account of ten thousand pounds."—Whitfield asked the hand of a young American lady of her parents, without troubling to ascertain her inclinations and was good enough to let them know they need not be afraid of offending him by declining the honor, since he blessed God he was free from the passion called love. Next to ignoring the lady altogether, the worst way of making a declaration is to do it by deputy. Cupid is no friend to faint hearted lovers. If a damsel be worth the wooing, it is odds upon the proxy suitor proving false, and suing on his own account. When those inseperable brothers, William and Jacob Grimm, were persuaded of the necessity of one of them taking a wife, they had a friendly contention as to which should be the victim, and after some days' argument, Jacob decided that he, being the elder, was bound to sacrifice himself They had previously fixed upon the lady a beautiful girl of twenty-two, but when it came to the push, Jacob's courage failed him, and William undertook to persuad the maiden to love his brother. After a weeks acquaintance poor William was horrified at discovering he had lost his heart; an I now, fully alive to the excellence of the fair one, was miserable, at the thought of loosing her, while he felt that to rob his brother of such a prize, would be an unpardonable treachery. Fortunately for everybody, Grim's aunt, a shrewd old lady, saw how things were and told Jacob what had come of William's efforts in his behalf. Jacob was delighted to think he had escaped matrimonial bondage, and celebrated his good fortune by roaming over the country a free man, until the honeymoon was over—the cross courtship ending more pleasantly for all concerned than such things commonly do. Convicted by kind Mrs. Churchman that he wanted a wife to look after him, the judicious Hooker escaped the bother of courting and popping the question by leaving his adviser to find him a mate, and arrange all preliminaries. Happening to have one upon her hands, the disinterested matron soon executed her commission, and the great churchman was speedily married as per contract. Shakspear's heroines are remarkably ready to take the initiative, popularly supposed to be the ladies' right only in Leap Year. Helena demands the hand of Birtram as the price of her wonder working prescription. Desdemona gives Othello the broadest hints that she is to be had for asking. Miranda tells her patient Igoman she is his wife if he will marry her. One Englishwoman of high degree, at any rate, had not very long before set her sister the example. Mary Tudor, thinking, not unreasonably, one loveless marriage sufficient for life, determined not to be sacrificed to state policy again; and Charles Bandoz had not been many hours in France ere Mary tearfully told him that, unless he wedded her there and then, he should never have a second chance. Brandon was not the man to say nay to such an appeal from the fairest princess in Christendom let what might come of it, and, at the risk of his head, accepted the proffered hand. The pair married in haste; but it is not recorded that they repented at leisure. Had the daughter of Gaston d'Orleans been as wise as the English princes, she would have taken Louis XIV, at his word when he consented to her marrying the Gascon DeLauzun. Mademoselle was proud; and, if love had impelled her to offer her hand, with her heart in it, to an inferior, she could not brook the idea of being married in a manner unbecoming to a princess of the blood royal. The king had time to listen to the remonstrances of his counselors, and when she besought him on her knees not to withdraw his consent, he only reproached her with not having profited by it while she could. Louise de Savoie, sometime Queen Regent of France, was equally unfortunate when she usurped the masculine privileges, and proposed to the famous Constable de Bourbon. Louise and Bourbon were at varience respecting the disposition of his dead wife's property.—Talking over the business one day together, the Queen Regent observed that there were more ways than one of accommodating a law suit. Queen Anne, for example, had saved Brittony from a civil war in a manner worthy of imitation. "True," answered Bourbon, "but I know not what princess would enable me to settle your highness' suit in such an agreeable manner." "You forget, duke, I am a widow," said Louise, allowing her hand to rest upon that of the Constable. Bourbon's face darkened as he rose to his feet, saying, "Your highness mistakes me. The respect I owe his Majesty, the disparity of our years, my own feelings, all render such a union impossible. If the king goes to law, I will fight him, madam, that's all!" Had not Louise de Savoie challenged that rebuff, Bourbon had not lived to lead his country's foes to victory, and the sack of Rome would not be a matter of history. Miss Kenrick, the beautiful heiress celebrated in the ballad of "The Berkshire Lady's Garland," adopted a singular method of winning the handsome young attorney, Benjamin Child, with whom she had fallen in love at sight. She sent him an anonymous letter, demanding satisfaction for injuries received. After vainly puzzling himself to guess whom his challenger might be, and now he had offended, Child betook himself, duly provided with a second, to the place of meeting, near a pleasant crystal fountain. There he saw no fierce gallant, only a masked lady, who asked him his business there. He told it; whereupon his fair questioner, flashing a rapier she carried for her security, said:

It is I that did invite you:
You shall wed me or I'll fight you
Underneath these spreading trees,
Therefore choose from which you please!

Rather taken aback by such a summons to surrender, Benjamin asked to see his challeger's face ere he decided. This was denied, she would not unmask until the knot was tied, but generously accorded him an hour's grace to turn the matter in his mind. His friend advised him, as he could lose nothing, to take the lady; and the three went off in her gilded coach to church, where the lady gay and her attorney were made one without delay. He did not repent the leap in the dark, when he found his summer mornings adventure had brought "beauty, honor riches, stores;" but, taking his place among the gentry of the country lived happy ever afterwards. The hero of this romance was, in 1714, high sheriff of Berkshire.—Not in such warlike fashion did Margaret Charlton attack Richard Baxter. She sought to attain her end by negotiaton; and never was a bachelor of forty-five more astonished than the worthy minister when Margaret's ambassadress opened her mind to him. He was destined to an additional shock. While he was vehemently declaring the idea preposterous, Margaret was listening at the study-door, and losing all self control, burst into the room, threw herself at her idol's feet crying, "Dear Mr. Baxter, I protest with a sincere heart, I do not make a tender of myself to you upon any worldly or carnal account, but to have a more perfect converse with so holy and prudent a yoke fellow to assist me on the way to heaven, and to keep me steadfast in my perseverance I design to God's glory and my soul's good!" Margaret Charlton was very pretty; Baxter was mortal and succumbed. So might Robert Leighton, Bishop of Dumblane, have done too, had he been wooed by a maiden as young and fair as Baxter's assailant, but the would be Mrs. Leighton was a spinster of mature age, who called to tell the bishop she had received a revelation from heaven that he was to become her husband. The prelate, though somewhat startled, was equal to the emergency. He assured his visitor that such an intimation was not to be despised; but, as yet, the designs of heaven were imperfectly explained, seeing they had only been revealed to one of the parties. He would wait to see if a similar communication were vouchsafed to himself and, whenever that happened, would be sure to let her know. It were hardly fair to reckon pretty Elizabeth Simpson among proposing ladies; although answering Mr. Inchbald's suggestion that she should marry, with "who would marry me?" was tantamount to seeking to seeking the reply, "I will, if you will have me." The actor was not so unready as Dean Ramsay's Scotch beadle, who could hit upon no better way of popping the question than by taking the object of his affection to the church-yard gate and saying, "My folk lie there: would you like to lie there, Mary?" Being like Barkis, willing, Mary was indifferent as to how the question was put as the Galloway girl, who, when her uncouth swain carelessly remarked, "I think I'll marry thee, Jean," responded, "Man Jock, I would be muckle obliged, to ye, if ye would."

The Commencement of W. F. College, Murfreesboro, N. C.

The Commencement passed agreeably and pleasantly. The weather was cool and delightful during the entire exercises. On Sunday an eloquent sermon for the benefit of the graduating class, was delivered by Rev. W. W. Duncan. Monday night at 7½ o'clock, while the Prof. of music played a march, the members of the "Theta Delta" society, dressed in a uniform of white and blue, made their appearance on the rostrum and were addressed by Rev. Geo. E. Booker. The address was suited to the occasion and very interesting. Rev. R. H. Sled not arriving in time to address the school on Tuesday Rev. W. W. Duncan was called on to fill his place; he managed by his eloquence and jokes to dispel the disappointment caused by the non-appearance of the expected orator. At night after some selections in reading by members the "M. P. S." society was addressed by Rev. J. W. Bleadsoe Wednesday morning dawned rainy and gloomy; the disappointment of those expecting friends was great, but before time for the exercises to begin, the sun came forth bright and beautiful, the rain having cooled the atmosphere, added much to the pleasure of the day. At night the house was filled, the music, instead of being grand and such as to require months to prepare it, was good and lively. Seemingly there was nothing to prevent all being happy; in the midst of music and flowers, surrounded by friends, knowing that for a time school, with its cares, was over, and on the morrow we would stand for home. But with this thought came the one that we must so soon leave our kind president and teachers, whom we all had learned to love. The parting was a sad one, not a few tears were intermingled with the good-byes.

To make our home trip pleasant, Mr. Starr spared no trouble. He had news from all directions, and where there would be any delay he, as far as possible, remedied it. We who came by Blackwater, had the pleasure of his company to Portsmouth. On the rout we had every convenience, instead of having to come to Franklin on a small boat, which would have been full, and then waiting for several hours for the train, we had a boat and a special train. Arriving at Portsmouth though there was but six of us to come farther, Mr. Starr chartered the Harbinger to take us home. And to the Capt. we are indebted for his courteous attentions &c. Thanks fail to express our gratitude to Mr. Starr. He is the right man in the right place. The school is now so much improved it can scarcely be recognized as the same, and what was done last session is only a beginning of what is to be. Parents wishing to educate their daughters can do no better than to send them to Murfresboro. It is there that they receive the most for the least money. Kindness is combined with firmness and nothing is left undone that is for the good of the students.

OUR PROJECTED RAILROAD.

The present extent and value of the tonnage transported upon the railroads of the United States is a most interesting and wonderful phenomenon. It now amounts to more than one hundred millions of tons annually. This wonderful traffic has been created by an extended railroad system and chiefly since 1850, from which date the most extraordinary growth of the country, dates, especially of the North and West. During this period large towns and cities have sprung up where previously the vista of the wide prairies was unbroken by a single hamlet. Whole States have been peopled and the soil redeemed from a useless waste to fruitful fields. The population has been and is still rapidly increasing. The area of improved land is year by year greatly extended. The value of real and personal estate is annually being added to. The material comforts and conveniences of the people are daily improving.

How many of these results can be successfully claimed for the Albemarle district? Is business improving to any encouraging extent? Are we increasing in population? Are we now increasing our tilled area of land? Are we making one additional waste spot blossom? Is the value of real estate improving? Are we adding very much of anything annually to our means for personal comfort and happiness? Are our facilities for education and improvement being increased? Is intellectual and mental culture advancing? What avenues for respectable employments for our sons, now rapidly approaching manhood are being opened? Have we no personal duty to perform in all this?

These are all pertinent questions that every man, and woman too, in this district should undertake personally to answer, and when solved, they should ask themselves again if the answer is satisfactory.

Now what has occurred in the North and West, many portions of the South and over the continent of Europe may be brought to pass in our midst. In our soil and waters are the almost neglected elements of wealth and happiness that prosperity always brings in its train. What other communities occupying territories less favored by nature have done, we surely can do. No one knows the measure of his strength until it is put to the test. The obstacle must be great indeed that a united and earnest community cannot overcome.

We often wonder how the 70,000 miles of railroad that extend across the continent and stretches its giant arms into every State, and in some States into every county, at an aggregate cost of two billion of dollars has been accomplished,

The history of railroad progress in this country, if written, would be full of the most interesting incidents of persevering efforts under adverse circumstances, happy success out of discouraing conditions, and the accomplishment of great results with means apparently inadequate to so great an effect; wrought out however by the determined spirit of men into whose vocabulary no such word as "can't," and "fail" ever entered.

Where are the men who are willing to put their shoulder to the wheel and help on the present movement for building a railroad from the Sound to Norfolk? We know there are many who are willing to bear their share of the burden. But is there enough of them who will come forward? Do not let us shirk our plain duty. Now is the time to show our hands.

THE JUDGE AND SOLICITORSHIP.

It is true that the Judgeship is not a political office and as far as possible it should be kept aloof from political discussions. Upon the bench the Judge sits in judgment not only upon the property, but upon the lives and liberties of the people, and it is important, nay necessary that he keep himself free from active political canvassing that he may be able to perform his grave and solemn duties unbiased and unprejudiced; that he may hold the scales of justice evenly balanced.

Entertaining these views both candidates for the judgship of this District have decided not to go on the stump. It is a proper decision. But as each have been regularly nominated by their political friends we see nothing improper in those friends making a canvas for their respective nominees. It seems to us that good faith requires this of them.

Therefore the NORTH CAROLINIAN sustains Judge ALBERTSON and Solicitor BAGLEY. They were regularly nominated at the regularly held Republican Convention and every principle of fairness and consistency requires that they have the full ,cordial, and united support of Republicans. Their ability is conceded, their integrity unquestioned and their fidelity unimpeached.

OUR SENATORIAL TICKET.

The Senatorial Convention acted wisely on Wednesday last, and that action will be endorsed by every true Republican in the District. Indeed the gentlemen nominated stand so high in public esteem that numbers of the moderate men of the opposition party will feel constrained to vote for them.

ELIHU A. WHITE everybody knows. He is one of the leading public men of Perquimans county, and is very popular. He is a man of sound judgment, irreproachable character and sterling integrity. Six years ago he represented this District in the Senate. He proved to be a safe, cautious, prudent member of that body. He can be trusted His nomination at this time was a fortunate one.

JOHN P. OVERMAN is yet a young man. He is a native of this county. We have known him intimately for years. He has fine talents, a finished education and a character without a stain. He has been a close student, and though not taking any conspicuous part in public affairs he has been a careful observer of the events that have made up the history of the past decade. He proposes to make a thorough canvas and we are sure will make a favorable impression.

The ticket is a good one—a strong one. We have no doubt of its success.

MIXED SCHOOLS.

The Republican party of North Carolina are not in favor of mixed schools. The white Republicans have never advocated it, the colored have never asked for it. Both ask, nay demand equality before the law, nothing more, nothing less. The Republicans of Robeson county thus clearly express it:

"That in the public schools maintained by the State, we are opposed, unalterably to the commingling of the white and colored races in the same. That in the question of education, as in all other questions affecting the different races, the Republican party holds the doctrine of equal rights, without commingling of races, which secures to the children of the colord man a course of educational training in the public schools devoted to his race equal to that which the children of the white man enjoy in the schools devoted to his. Equality of training and educational advantages, in quality and quantity, but always separate schools."

AS WE UNDERSTAND IT.

The idea of "mixed schools" is as repugnant to the colored people as it is to the whites. Neither race in North Carolina desire or advocate it. The Civil Rights Bill. as we understand it does not mean forced mixed schools. If it did we would oppose it as earnestly as any man.

Nor does it mean social equality. This is something that cannot be regulated by Congressional enactments or public laws. And so far as the Republican party is concerned it is on record against any attempt of this sort. But it is in favor of and advocates equality before the law for all citizens of the United States without regard to race, color or previous condition.

The colored Representative from Mississippi; Mr. LYNCH, in referring to the failure of the Civil Rights bill to pass the House said that it did not trouble him for he felt assured that the party that had been true to his race in the past would continue to be so in the future. He was correct. The republican party is honestly the friend of equal rights, while the Democratic will oppose them. It does so instinctively as well as traditionally: In the language of Mr. ADAMS it is an aristocratic conspiracy." Never in its long history, although pandering to the mob, has it ever respected the people. Said Mr. LYNCH "they charge that the Republican goverrnments of the South have stolen money. I charge tha the Democracy propose to steal rights'

Subscription price $3 a year.

In a country where the people are the source of power and authority it is a selfevident proposition that its progress and well being are dependent upon the education and general diffusion of knowledge and intelligence among the people. This being so the question of education is of paramount importance to North Carolina. It should be seen to that all the children of the State are provided with proper educational facilities.

The Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution guarantees perfect equality before the law, and that is all the Republicans of North Carolina demand. This being so, they neither ask for nor desire an action at this time upon the "Civil Rights" question. It is only unnecessary agitation without accomplishing anything more than is already guaranteed.

Congress adjourned on the 23d ult. Notwithstanding all the clamor of the opposition the good works of the session just closed largely overbalance the evil.

Post Master General CRESSWELL has resigned. It is surmised that he will soon go off on a Foreign mission. Hon. EUGENE HALE, of Maine, has been appointed his successor.

The Saturday Evening Post.

The Oldest and Best Story Paper Published.

Founded August 4th, A. D. 1821.

For more than half century the SATURDAY EVENING POST has been the

GREAT LITERARY WEEKLY

of the Country, and has ever born a widespread and unblemished reputation for the unsurpassed purity, refinement and excellence of of the Serials, Sketches and Miscellaneous reading matter.

It is pre-eminently

THE BEST FAMILY PAPER

that is published in this county, from its never containing anything that would offend the feelings of any one, either in a religious or political sense, or that could not be read at any fireside without objection from the most fastidious.

The circulation of the Saturday Evening Post, though not quite so large perhaps, as its younger contemporaries, is not, like that of some of them, fluctuating. and too often short lived, but based upon the intrinsic merit of the paper itself, and not dependent on any extraneous influences, such as the popularity of individual writers, &c.

SURE, SOLID AND SUBSTANTIAL,

Good, however, as the Saturday Evening Post has been in the past, it is our intention to make it still better in the future, and with this object in view we will effect a marked improvement in every department of the paper and will call to our assistance writers of admitted ability and known reputation.

By increasing its former attractions, and adding many judicious and pleasing novelties by studying how to please and cultivate the popular taste by increasing industry and enterprise, and by enlarged facilities, we hope to make new friends with each and every issue, and continue to maintain the claim of the Saturday Evening Post to its title of The Oldest and the Best of Family Story Papers.

which can be cured by a timely resort to this standard preparation, as has been proved by the hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors. It is acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most reliable preparation ever introduced for the relief and cure of all Lung complaints, and is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years. When resorted to in season it seldom fails to effect a speedy cure in the most severe cases of Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Asthma, Colds, Sore Throat, Pains or Soreness in the Chest and Side, Liver Complaint, Bleeding at the Lungs, &c. Wistar's Balsam does not dry up a Cough, and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs, and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

THE DAILY GRAPHIC

The only Illustrated Daily Newspaper in the World.

With its issue for March 4, 1874, THE DAILY GRAPHIC entered upon the second year of a career phenomenal in the history of journalism. Its story of a twelvemonths has been a steady and unquestioned growth in popular acceptance as the most original, artistically luxurious, and wonderfully comprehen-ive metropolitan j urnal ever published in the United States.

As a brilliant novelty, the whole country has confessed its unique attraction ; as a practical and marvellously complete Newspaper, it has become a daily necessity to the social and mercantile interests of one of the largest permanent constituencies ever attained by a journalistic enterprise in the same period, while its great specialty, beyond all actuality or hope of competition, as has been the wonder, delight, and new education of individuals and homes in every State of the Union. In the very idea of such utilization of the finest pictorial art, for every day's information and reflection, there is all the charm of a romance; and the realization of that idea, made visible in THE DAILY GRAPHIC, is a practical and ever-varying assimilation of the most fascinating Ornament with the commonest Use which never palls upon even the most pampered taste. From the first issue the successive multitude of its pictures has been a perfect study of mechanical and journalistic development ; the inevitable early imperfections of artists and others, not yet thoroughly trained in the new process, di-appearing steadily in an as steadily increasing accuracy and beauty of artistic effects. Indeed this very illustration, from day to day, of the Time,s spirit of progress in Art, as well as in Events has been an added and piquant interest, which is yet to be maintained for the public by unending future "Graphic" improvements. Scarcely more, however, for its beautiful portraits, trenchant cartoons, vivid news-etchings, and unequalled reproductions of the world's choicest works of art, than for its unrivalled attractions as

A SUPERB PICTORIAL MIRROR

DAILY HISTORY,

NEWS, SOCIETY, AND LITERATURE,

has THE DAILY GRAPHIC been nationally recognized and popularly welcomed. Its genuine editorial independence, wide sweep of intelligence, ever-varying department of literary and persona interest, sparkling correspondence and pungent criticisms, make it as much a favorite in the sanctum of the great Western or Southern or Northern newspapers as in the counting-room and the family circle.

THE DAILY GRAPHIC is an Eight-page Paper, published every afternoon (three editions), in time for the erly mails to all parts of the country.

THE DAILY GRAPHIC has a larger average circulation—more copies printed and sold each day—than any other evening paper in New York excepting only the [penny] News.

THE DAILY GRAPHIC is a great newspaper, as well as the only illustrated daily paper. It has special correspondents everywhere, and it has a larger staff of writers and news-gatherers than any other evening paper in New York.

THE DAILY GRAPHIC is preserved for binding by hundreds of its readers in city and country. The annual subscriber gets a Pictorial History of the Year, a volume of twenty-four hundred pages, consituting a valuable record of events and a graphic panoroma of our time and progress,

Local and Personal.

☞The appointments of the candidate for Solicitor will be announced hereafter.

☞The Republicans of Hertford County will hold their County Convention in Winton on the 4th day of July.

☞The following officers were elected by Achore Lodge, No. 141. O. O. F. on Thursday the 25th inst: W J LUMSDEN, N G; M B CULPEPPER, V G; WM GREEN, S; G W BELL, T.

☞A considerable amount of clover and timothy hay has been made in this section, the most of it of very fine quality. Our farmers are beginning to appreciate the advantage of paying more attention to this profitable crop.

☞WILLIS BAGLEY Esq., our candidate for Solicitor, has already made several speeches in this canvas. We hear them spoken of in the highest terms. He makes a good impression wherever he goes. He will meet his competitor on the stump in every county of the district.

☞"Who did you nominate for the Senate?" asked a Democrat of a Republican the other day. "ELIHU A. WHITE of Perquimans and JOHN P. OVERMAN of Pasquotank" was the reply. "A mighty strong ticket," said the Democrat. So say all.

☞The indications for good crops continue. What a blessing they will prove to this section. The result can hardly be estimated. They will assist as nothing else can, to brighten the commercial sky, & remove from us the disastrous effects of last falls panic and crop failure.

☞In consequence of the Chairman of the Board of Examiners being confined to his room by bilious fever the Examination of Teachers which was to begin to-day, has been postponed until Thursday of next week, the 8th inst. and will continue the balance of the week.

☞We shall have something in our next issue upon the political gerrymandering of this Judicial District. We denounced it at the time and we still believe it was prompted by the design to legislate the present worthy and able incumbent out of office.

☞The proceedings of the Senatorial Convention appear in another column. Of the candidates we speak elsewhere. We call special attention to the resolutions adopted—all of them. They are pointed and timely. In the afternoon a ratification meeting was held in the Court House at which speeches were made by JOHN P. OVERMAN, L. W. BOONE, Dr. P. JOHN, WM. J. MUNDEN and MILES COMMANDER.

☞The Republicans of Camden nominated a strong ticket at their Convention on Saturday. It is as follows: For the Legislature, J. W. HALSTEAD; Sheriff, FRANK GILBERT; Probate Judge T. B. BUSHALL; Register, B. M. ABBOTT; Treasurer, JAMES SAWYER; Coroner, WM. P. BURFIT, Commissioners, WM. MORRISETT, Maj. W. R. ABBOTT, A. P. CHERRY, S. A. JONES & T. O. GARETT. With these men in office the interests of the county will be safe. Proceedings of the convention next week.

☞We propose revising our subscription list. It is impossible to do business long on the trust system. It is more profitable to have a smaller list, if it is a prompt paying one, than to have a large one with too many in arrears for their subscriptions. We have been lenient and forbearing. We now feel that the time has come when our indulgence should be appreciated. We are sending out bills. Those who do not respond, and receive no paper after this issue will understand the reason why. We mean no offense, but we must protect ourself.

☞The Washington, N. C., Echo says that Maj. YEATES, in his speech at that place, was very mild—that he did not "pour out any of his wrath and abuse." We are glad to hear that he is improving, and that he has decided to act upon the advice of his more discreet friends: We would not do him or any other opposition candidate the least injustice, but when any of them make the kind of speeches Maj. YEATES did here on the 6th of June, we feel it to be our duty to take exceptions. The Democratic attempt to regulate white Republicans out of society or to drive them into the Democratic party by drawing the line of color won't go down in Eastern North Carolina.

☞We have no more interest in the railroad than any other citizen owning the same amount of property here. Until our resources are developed, business increased, population trebled and capital quadrupled neither our property nor any other man's property here can be one quarter as valuable as it ought to be. And as all these things are accomplished, every man—property holder, business man and laborer—will be benefited. As these are helped we will be. As we are benefited they must be. We are all in the same boat. What helps one must help all, and as we are so thoroughly satisfied that our salvation, (materially speaking), is in the railroad, we earnestly advocate it. We would be recreant to our interest and the people's interests not to do so.

☞After a long and painful illness Mrs. KATE OVERMAN, wife of R. F. OVERMAN, Esq., Cashier of the Albemarle Bank, died on Tuesday, June 23, aged 38 years and 16 days. Mr. OVERMAN is one of our most esteemed and worthy citizens and we deeply sympathize with him in his sad bereavement.

☞A journalist who conscientiously performs his duty to his party and to the public is sometimes obliged to use the "satyric thong" so as to be felt. There are times when the good of both demand this. But to keep within the bounds of justice and right, as we understand them, has ever been our aim. Possibly we sometimes err. If we do we can say with sincerity it is an error of the head and not of the heart. We never use our position to needlessly or carelessly wound the feelings of any man. Private individuals and private character we never attack or assault. Public men and politicians must expect to pass the ordeal of scrutiny, aye and of criticism. If they are too sensitive for this they prove that they have mistaken their vocation. While in the exercise of our editorial functions we sometimes use plain Anglo Saxon and try to be fair and just. But long, long ago we abandoned the hope of pleasing everybody. An honest man, with a positive nature, who attempts to do so will signally fail.

☞We sincerely believe that the completion of the railroad to Elizabeth City will open up a new era of business activity and general prosperity that will surprise every element of old fogyism We predict that within five years after it is completed and put in operation our town will quadruple in population and and business and wealth. With a rail road there will be an inducement for men of capital to erect manufacturies. These bring people—give employment to labor. And all have to be fed. Each manufactory started will employ from fifty to one hundred hands. Suppose at least half of these have families, averaging five each. Then each factory will alone increase the population from two to five hundred people. Each family will disburse every year from five to eight hundred dollars. See what it will amount to in the aggregate. And where does this money come from? Why, it will be drawn into our town from the outside world where the manufactured products are to be consumed. It will be spent here to the former for bread and meat, to the merchant for goods, to the mechanic for his handiwork. Every man will get his share. The more liberal the local subscriptions and the sooner they are made the sooner will these results be accomplished.

☞Wednesday last was the anniversary of a day memorable in Masonic history. It was fittingly observed by the fraternaty here. Eureka Lodge having decided upon a public celebration and the ladies having kindly offered to prepare a Dinner suitable for the occasion, an invitation was extended to the neighboring Lodges to join in the former and to the wives and children and the widows and orphans of all Master Masons to participate in the latter. The day opened fair, and early the members of the "mystic tie" began to convene from all parts of the country, including representatives from the Lodges of Hertford, Camden and Currituck. At ten o'clock the procession was formed in front of the Masonic Hall on Road Street and, preceded by our most excellent Band, marched up to and down Church Street to the Odd Fellows Hall on Water Street, where the members of that order, having been invited to join in the procession and festivities, were taken in escort; then marched up Main Street to the Baptist Church where the devotional exercises were performed by Chaplain MELLICK; then marched back to and up Road Street to Shepard and down Shepard Street to the beautiful grove of Dr. UNDERWOOD's which he kindly tendered for the occasion. After a brief introductory address by the editor of this paper a very fine oration was then delivered by Maj. L. H. BABB, of Indian Ridge, N. C. It was beautiful in conception, chaste in thought and eloquent in delivery. After the oration dinner was announced, and such a dinner! Our reportorial pen fails us in fittingly describing the magnificent feast prepared for the occasion. The tables fairly groaned under their great weight of good things. It was a common expression. "We have seen a great many public dinners, but never one to equal this." The lady managers did more than credit to themselves and no higher compliment could be paid them. It is estimated that over a thousand people were upon the grounds and no one went away hungry. After the appetites of all were satisfied with both the substantials and the luxuries bountifully provided for the occasion, the procession reformed and marched back to the Odd Fellows Hall where, on behalf of the Odd Fellows a neat and happily conceived address of thanks was delivered by WALTER F. POOL, Esq., when the Masons marched to their Hall and were dismissed. It was a gala day in our city—one long to be remembered.

LOCAL FORT-FOLIO.

It don't pay—to return the kick of a mule. Scriptual advice—answer a fool according to his folly. A week conclusion—Saturday night. A fast city—electricity. A power behind the throwu—orange peel. A bad omen—to owe men money.

LOCAL BRIEFS.—Do not forget to list your town property. The time will expire in a few days.—A number of improvements are being made in different parts of the city.—The examination of teachers begins to-day.—Several communications crowded out this issue, and several articles necessarily abreviated.—Parties having old Town Orders will not forget to bring them in to the Commissioner's meeting next Monday.—Another Democratic paper is being talked of. The more the merrier.—The local and district politicians are beginning to warm up. Our advice is, do not get too hot.—D. C. LIPPINCOTT has returned. We are indebted to GEO. D. POOL, Jr. for a basket of fine roasting ears.

☞Nags Head Hotel opens to-day and we learn, under favorable auspices Ample arrangements are made for the increased comfort of guests and visitors. By the advertisements in this issue it will also be seen that the transportation facilities are to be increased over former years. Everything points to a delightful season at this popular Summer resort.

A BRILLIANT RECORD OF CURES.—An American humorist tells us that it would have been money in his pocket if he had been born without a stomach, and then proceeds to figure up the cost of a chronic dyspepsia, to which he is a martyr, and which he says it is impossible to cure. On this point, "Josh Billings, (for he is the party referred to) is mistaken. Unless his stomach differs from all other dyspeptic stomachs Hostetter's Bitters will cure him in less than three months. This it would be safe to guarantee under any penalty. There are a few, a very few, actual specifics for disease in existence, and Hostetter's Stomach Bitters may be set down as one of them. In cases of indigestion it never fails. Persons who had suffered for many years almost every conceivable species of torture from this agonizing complaint, have been permanently cured with the Bitters in six weeks. Hundreds of such instances are on record, authenticated by the testimony of prominent men in every walk of life, eminent physicians among the number. But this celebrated vegetable preparation is something more than a stomachic and tonic. It is also an alterative of wonderful virtue. In liver complaint its effect is as direct and immediate as that of calomel or blue pill, and for more salutary; and in all diseased conditions of the bowels, notably in cases of constipation, its regulating properties are in the highest degree serviceable. The new settlements in the west and all low-lying tracts of country infested with miasmatic exhalations, so fruitful at this season of the various types of intermittent fevers, should be always well stocked with this incomparable remedy which will cure any case of fever and ague in a period varying from three days to three or four weeks, according to the violence of the complaint. Nervous disorders which are always aggravated by the adulterated liquors usually prescribed by physicians, are readily cured by a course of this admirable combination medicine in which the properties of a stimulant, a tonic and laxative are happily blended.

TWO AMERICAN MAGAZINES.—The excellence of AMERICAN MAGAZINES has become so well recognized abroad that one of the leading English Papers, the LONDON WEEKLY REVIEWER, in a recent issue, thus speaks of SCRIBNER MONTHLY.

"We are constrained to own that SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY, carries off the prize against all shilling monthly serials for brilliancy of illustrations and variety of contents. It is simply a wonderful shillen's worth. Nothing can be more charming than the cuts,—full of force and vigor; the light and shade are managed with a truly artistic power. Out of its one and twenty original articles, we really do not know which to choose as best, for each and all are excellent."

Not only is it true that Scribner's Monthly excels the English Magazines, but it is "The Best of the American Monthlies."

In the extent, variety and artistic excellence of its illustration of American themes, it has never been even approached, much less excelled. It has a large page and gives a greater variety in its contents than any other of the Standard American Monthlies.

In literary character, and in the brilliancy and ability of its Editorial Departments it enjoys an equal pre-eminence.

Its conductors started with the definite aim of making it the best magazine in the world, of which they have for a moment lost sight, and they point with pride and pleasure to the May and June numbers, recently issued and ask for them a candid examination and a careful comparison of their merits with those of other magazines; and they renew their pledge to the public, to strive for still higher excellence in the future.

A considerable demand has recently arisen in England for Sir. Nicholas, Scribner's New magazine for boys and girls, one publisher desiring to secure an edition of three thousand of first bound volume (when completed) with his imprint.

The success of St. Nicholas in this country has been even more remarkable than that of Scribner's Monthly. It is pronounced to be "an ideally periect Magazine for children" and, as is the case with all the best literature for children, it has been found to possess surpassing interest for grown-up readers, as well.

The influence of the periodicals of the day can scarcely be estimated, especially upon the rising generation. Parents and teachers cannot afford to be indifferent to this influence, or careless in relation to the character of the literature furnished to the children outside of their school lessons. In St. Nicholas not only are History, Natural Philosophy, Literature, Fine Arts, and Manufactures presented in an attractive way to young readers, but the children are stimulated to seek information for themselves,

The Publishers will send to any address a specimen number of St. Nicholas, postage prepaid, on receipt of ten cents, the bare cost of paper and printing. The magazines are sold by all firstclass Booksellers and Newsdealers, everywhere.

Good Qualities of Orchard Grass

Orchard grass (Doctylis glomerata) is one of the most valuable grasses on account of its nutritious quality and universal adaptation to different soils and climates. It has an erect stem varying in height according to the richness of the land in which it is grown. The leaves are dark green, wide, flat, and of great length, which gives the plant the appearance of coarseness, when in fact it is only rankness which is one of its most valuable characteristics. It is perennial, and in the climates of Central and Western New York will riven in June. On account of this early maturity it is not so well adapted for meadows, because it matures before the season of haying fairly begins. This is the only objection, and when the farmer is prepared to cut this grass, however early it may ripen, it is no objection, but on the contrary, a benefit, inasmuch as the second growth will be much larger. It should always be cut when in blossom, and then it makes good hay, but if left longer, rapidly ripens, and the stalk becomes woody.

No grass is suitted to be sown with orchard grass except early clover, which will be ready to cut at the same time. Early or June clover should always be sown with it from the fact that orchard grass at first makes a tiny start and requires at least three years to complete its full growth. It is inclined to grow in bunches or tussocks which spread and enlarge from a single seed or rootlet to the size in rich land of a peck measure. Close crapping has a tendency to prevent its bunching up. It will bear the closest feeding of any grass, and in the growing season, in lands of good fertility, a fresh bite will be reproduced in from 3 to 5 days. The reason why orchard grass makes such rapid and vigorous growth and is not affected by drouth is because it throws out a mass of long, fibrous roots, which extend directly downward to a great depth.

In its growth and roots it is entirely different from couch grass or quack, with which it is often confounded (botanical name Triticum repens), which has short straggling stems and leaves, the leaves narrower, and not so uniform as the orchard grass. The stems are jointed and so are the roots; the later creeping and confined to the surface with sharp horny ends. The flower and seed head of quack is long, and slender, and erect, while that of orchard grass grows in a half dozen or more dense cluster, the whole head resembling somewhat the foot of a cock, hence it is sometimes called "cocksfoot." Drouths affect orchard grass the least of any known grass, nor is it much injured by frost or by the heaving of the ground, on account, in the first place of its deep rooting; secondly, the mass of foliage, which is naturally self protecting.

There is no bulb or crest to the roots to be injured by frosts or exposure, but each rootlet is independent, self sustaining, and of great length. Farmers have only to see orchard grass growing to observe the marked difference between it and either quack grass or timothy, and to understand from its nature that it must be a vigorous and lasting grower. On this account for pasture and exposed situation it has no equal. All kinds of stock are very fond of it. It is less exhausting to the surface of the soil than any other grass unless it is clover. It will do well in the shade, hence the name.

The seed is readily gathered by cradling off the tops and binding them into small bundles, to be set up in stocks and and left in the field until thoroughly dry when the seed can be easily threshed off with the flail. A bushel of seed usually weighs 12 pounds, and not less than two bushels should be sown to the acre. The best time to sow the seed in the State of New York is the last of August or the first of September, either alone on a well prepared soil, or with rye or wheat. In the Spring from four to six quarts of clover seed should be sown. A good seeding can be had with orchard grass when sown in the spring with grain, if the season is favorable. The growth at first is very delicate and slow; hence the dry weather of the Summer will try the young crop. In this respect it is more tender than timothy, as the germ is feebler. It is safer to sow in the Fall. The seed should be covered lightly with a bushbrag or a roller. Considerable chaff or husk being attached to the seed unfits it for self-covering like the smooth round seed of timothy or clover, and on this account the surface should be in fine tilth and the seed slightly covered.

Orchard grass will produce three times as much feed as blue grass (Poa pratensis) except on strong lime soils, as in Eastern Kentucky. It will do well on wet land, where clover and timothy will heave out; but if the land is very wet, red-top sometimes called herds grass (Agrostic vulgaris) will do better. This is a natural swale grass and is perennial. It is much later than orchard grass and, although the hay is somewhat soft and light, it is valuable and makes a permanent, strong sward.

I should not advise a farmer to sow orchard grass where his last year's seeding has failed, but if he is anxious to get it into grass as soon as possible, to plow up the land and put on oats or barley, and seed this Spring with orchard grass and June clover. If his sod ground is not too heavy, and he can bring it into a fine tilth, it will do to sow on Spring grain with orchard grass and clover this season. A better way would be, if he desires to get a good, permanent seeding and can spare the land, to Summer fallow his sod ground, and sow it with rye or wheat the last of August, and sow then with orchard grass. Two plowings would be sufficient one early in July, and the other the last of August. By following this plan, considerable pasture or hay could be obtained, the weeds killed and a very desirable seeding could be had. Orchard grass, like any other crop, will do best when sown early in Spring so that as large a growth as possible can be made before the Summer drouths.

There is no grass, unless it be clover, which furnishes so satisfactory as after math as orchard grass. For soiling it is admirable, as several cuttings can be made in one season. To secure a thorough seeding of this excellent grass is worth the most careful painstaking, for when once done it will prove a permanent and profitable investment, and for years yield a bountiful and satisfactory harvest.—F. D. Curtis, Saratoga Co., N. Y.

Newpapers are getting up a discussion about the number of apples eaten by Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden, for lack of something better to talk about. One exchange makes the result as follows: "Eve 8 and Adam 2, a total of 10 only." Another gives it. "Eve 8, and Adam 8 also; total 16." A third declares the abouve figures entirely wrong, arguing that if Eve 8 and Adam 8 2, certainly the total will be 90. Scientific men, however differ. Some reason something like this: "Eve 8 1st, and Adam 8 2; total 163." But a Massachustts paper inqures, "What could be clearer than if Eve 8 1 and Adam 8 1 2, the total was 893?" A question having such important practical bearings should be definitely settled.

DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
EUREKA
VINEGAR BITTERS

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

If men will enjoy good health, let them use VINEGAR BITTERS as a medicine, and avoid the use of alcoholic stimulants in every form.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc., etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics, will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Jaundice.—In all cases of jaundice, rest assured that your liver is not doing its work. The only sensible treatment is to promote the secretion of the bile and favor its removal. For this purpose use VINEGAR BITTERS.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

THE GREAT BALOON.

You've heard about the great balloon,
In which Professor Wise
Proposed to go to Europe,
By sailing through the skies,
He proposed to show the people
A quicker way for trips
Than ever had been known before,
By sailing o'er in ship.

Well everything seemed lovely
Upon that Autumu day,
When they began to pump in gas
To bear the barge away.
They pumped and pumped with all their power,
And things seemed nigh adjusted—
When there came an awful crash,
And the mighth bubble busted.

It's ever thus in human life,
Go whereso'er we may,
The darkest night will oft succeed
The brightest, sunniest day,
There are exceptions to this rule,
Where all the days are fair,—
For one, go down to JOHNSON'S HALL,
You'll find things all right there.

We've thought it best in cases like this,
This little fact to mention;
You need not ferr that they'll inflate
Beyond their power of retention.
And when they undertake to go
Their geer's so well adjusted,
They'll move straigh forward to their work,
With no fear of being "busted."
